Editorial Submissions

We seek top-quality, exclusive editorial articles for each edition of NZCN, accompanied by high-resolution photos and/or illustrations. Preference will be given to articles relating to New Zealand projects, products and/or services, or those projects overseas involving New Zealanders and New Zealand-sourced products/services. Potential contributors should in the first instance contact the editor to discuss their article, the number of words and the deadline for submission. Editorial should be sent as a Word document, with images sent as separate attachments (not embedded in the Word document or main body of the email) with preferred captions for each photo. Images must be of good quality, in focus and taken at a high resolution – ideally 300 dpi. We cannot reproduce images that have been down-sized for email or web purposes.

The editor reserves the right to edit material and to reject submissions. The accuracy of the material is the responsibility of the contributor.

While we welcome material from commercial sources, it should be as independent as possible. 'Advertorial' material (which reads like a brochure, and overtly promotes a business's products/services) will not be considered unless accompanied by paid advertising. Unsolicited editorial will only be considered for publication if space permits.

Need help writing your own PR or advertorial?

We have access to a number of independent freelance writers who are available at very cost-effective rates to write editorial on your behalf. These writers are specialists and have written extensively for trade media. Ask us for their contact details.
